Lettre d'informations No. 57

Novembre 2016

Message de la présidente de la commission

Cher.es membres de la commission,

C'est un honneur d'avoir été nommée à la tête de la commission Genre et géographie de l'UGI pour la période courant de 2016 à 2020. Depuis de nombreuses années, j'ai été inspiré par nos membres et présidents de commission, je ferai de mon mieux pour poursuivre dans cette voie. Le nombre de nos membres continuent de croître, et nos activités ont des effets positifs sur la vie des gens. Je suis enthousiaste à l'idée de travailler durant les quatre prochaines années avec le comité directeur et de soutenir nos activités dans le monde entier. Nous avons prévu un certain nombre de réunions, mais avant d'en discuter, j'aimerais remercier tout particulièrement notre ancienne présidente.

Merci à Shirlena Huang

Le solide leadership de Shirlena Huang – présidente de 2012 à 2016 – s'est révélé durant cette période à l'occasion de nombreuses activités. La Commission a tenu des réunions à Hambourg et Cologne (2012), Nara et Kyoto (2013), Varsovie, Cracovie, Rondônia et Delhi (2014), Milwaukee et Moscou (2015), Pékin et Barcelone (2016). Durant le mandat de Shirlena, en 2014, la Commission a remporté de manière inaugurale le "Prix d'excellence de la Commission" ('Commission Excellence Award') en reconnaissance de nos activités et réalisations pour 2012 et 2013. Ce fut une période de leadership des plus impressionnantes. Merci Shirlena. Nous apprécions grandement ton engagement envers la Commission.

Notre thème 2016 - 2020

Notre thème pour les quatre prochaines années est «Un programme permanent pour le genre: Respecter la différence, favoriser le dialogue». Nous continuerons à créer des espaces pour le pluralisme et la différence dans la géographie. Nous pouvons le faire en renforçant et en accroissant l'engagement collaboratif entre les géographes, au-delà des frontières nationales, des limites sous-disciplinaires et des générations. Plus précisément, nous prévoyons de :

a) continuer à organiser des conférences et à soutenir des ateliers pour former des géographes féministes et aboutir à une prise de conscience autour des questions de genre et des approches féministes, en particulier dans les pays situés en dehors du «centre anglo-américain»;

b) mettre en place un groupe de doctorant.es, de docteur.es et de collègues en début de carrière au sein de la Commission pour encadrer les jeunes chercheurs émergents intéressés par la géographie féministe / féministe;

c) Et encourager le dialogue sur l'intersection du genre avec d'autres identités qui jouent un rôle dans l'expérience des lieux, comme l'âge, la classe sociale, l'ethnicité, la sexualité, la capacité et d'autres.

Je suis impatiente de travailler avec vous tou.te.s.

Chaleureusement,

Lynda Johnston,
Université de Waikato (lyndaj@waikato.ac.nz)

Conférence Feminist Geographies and Intersectionality: Places Identities and Knowledges

Le Groupe de recherche sur Genre et géographie de l'Université autonome de Barcelone a organisé une conférence, soutenue par la Commission genre de l'UGI, stimulante et très réussie les 14-15 et 16 juillet dernier. Celle-ci a rassemblé 76 chercheur.es de 21 pays (parmi lesquels l'Argentine, la Belgique, le Brésil, le Canada, l'Allemagne, la France, la Grèce, l'Islande, l'Inde, Israël, l'Italie, les Pays-Bas, la Nouvelle-Zélande, le Portugal, Singapour, la Suède, la Turquie, les Etats-Unis et le Royaume-Uni) et proposée trois conférences plénières, douze sessions, une table ronde et une visite guidée de la vieille ville de Barcelone dirigée par Antoni Luna et Rosa Cerarols de l'Université Pompeu Fabra. La Commission a particulièrement apprécié l'excellente organisation et les efforts soutenus des organisatrices. En retour, les organisatrices ont exprimé leur gratitude envers tous les membres pour leur participation et leurs généreuses collaborations.

Les participant.es à l'Institut d'études catalanes avant l'excursion pédestre

Joos Droogleever Fortuijn (Vice-présidente de l'UGI) de l'Université d'Amsterdam a présenté la première conférence plénière liant la recherche et l'enseignement afin de démontrer pourquoi l'intersectionnalité importe dans tous les environnements d'apprentissage et comment être en prise avec l'intersectionnalité. Hanna Hamdam Saliba (aménagement urbain et régional, Palestine / Israël) s'est concentrée sur les expériences spatiales quotidiennes, les pratiques et les comportements des femmes arabes à Barcelone et Jaffa / Tel Aviv et comment ces femmes font face à diverses structures de pouvoir qui influencent leurs pratiques spatiales dans l'espace urbain. Margarida Queirós do Vale (Université de Lisbonne) a parlé de genre les villes intelligentes: les espaces-temps et les lieux du féminisme, thème principal d'un projet qui utilise des méthodes innovantes pour étudier les aspects socio-économiques des usages quotidiens de l'espace et du temps chez les hommes et les femmes.

Les présentations des participant.es ont porté sur différents thèmes montrant l'attention portée à l'intersectionnalité concernant différentes identités et domaines: l'enseignement et l'apprentissage, l'activisme, la théorie intersectionnelle, les sexualités, les masculinités, les religions, les migrations, les méthodologies et les mobilités, le travail et le contrat sexuel. Ils ont exploré les identités et les représentations (au sens large de droits humains, de la citoyenneté, de la justice environnementale et du droit au logement, à l'aménagement et aux choix politiques) et reflète ce qui est moins considéré en lien avec les droits de la personne – les sexualités et les politiques queers, la cityenneté, la justice environnementale et le droit au logement. La conférence a particulièrement attiré l'attention sur les théories et les méthodologies pour leur potentiel heuristique et sur des thèmes moins étudiés comme la religion.

La commission genre au congrès de l'UGI à Beijing du 22 au 25 août 2016

La Commission a soutenu plusieurs sessions au Congrès, à la fois indépendamment et conjointement avec les commissions de géographie politique et de géographie urbaine. En outre, des membres ont présenté des communications dans des sessions organisées par d'autres commissions, par exemple, la Commission d'histoire de la géographie. Les thèmes récurrents portaient sur les migrations, l'emploi et la situation économique des femmes, la conciliation entre travail et vie familiale, les corps genrés, la prise d'autonomie (empowerment) dans les sphères publiques et privées, et genrer les droits. Elles concernaient à la fois les milieux urbains et ruraux. La représentation régionale était diversifiée, avec de nombreuses présentations de géographes asiatiques, en particulier de l'Inde et de Singapour. Parmi les présentations qui ont cassé les codes académiques, on compte une présentation sous forme poétique et une autre sur une recherche collaborative conduite par deux étudiants de Téhéran sur les perceptions et les expériences des jeunes femmes en matière de harcèlement sexuel dans l'air urbaine de Téhéran.

La réunion de la Commission genre a eu lieu le 24 août, a été dirigée par la présidente de la Commission, Shirlena Huang et suivi par d'ancien.nes et nouveaux membres. Un sujet phare a été le développement de Yes! initiative de soutien aux jeunes chercheur.es débutant.es, présentée conjointement par les responsables en charge de ce groupe de travail Kamalini Ramdas (Université nationale de Singapour) et Milena Janiec Grygo (Université du Sud de la Floride). Le groupe de travail réalise actuellement un sondage auquel on peut accéder à l'adresse suivante : <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/JYSYFQ8>. L'objectif est d'utiliser le groupe de travail pour construire une plate-forme de mise en réseau, de partage et de mentorat par les pairs, qui connecterait aussi aux ressources des géographes féministes en poste qui peuvent être des mentors et des allié.es pour les géographes féministes en début de carrière.

Pour en savoir plus à propos de YES!, veuillez contacter les deux responsables : Caroline Faria (cvfaria@austin.utexas.edu) ou Kamalini Ramdas (geokr@nus.edu.sg).

Remise de prix à Maria Dolores Garcia Ramon de l'Université autonome de Barcelone

En reconnaissance de sa contribution substantielles aux travaux locaux et internationaux en géographie du genre, Maria Dolores Garcia Ramon a reçu deux prix majeurs. Lors de la cérémonie de clôture du Congrès de l'UGI à Beijing en août, le prix d'honneur lui a été décerné pour son activité académique et son implication. Il s'agit notamment de son rôle de secrétaire à la fondation de la Commission en 1988, d'initiatrice du groupe genre de son université qui a engagé et encouragé de nombreu.ses spécialistes du genre dont certain.es sont maintenant des collègues. Elle a accueilli de nombreux visiteur.es internationaux et organisé des conférences internationales sur le genre. Ses recherches sur le travail et l'identité des femmes en milieu rural ont été soutenues, tout comme ses études sur l'histoire des femmes exploratrices. Ce fut une opportunité offerte par l'UGI de célébrer ses contributions et son amitié.

En octobre, elle a été récompensée du Prix Vautrin-Lud, également connu sous le nom de «prix Nobel de géographie». Fondé en 1990, il distingue des géographes reconnus et est décerné au Festival international de géographie qui se tient chaque année à Saint-Dié des Vosges en France. Maria Dolors devient la quatrième femme géographe lauréate de ce prix.

Le numéro 69 de Feministisches Geo-rundmail daté d'octobre 2016 fournit une série d'études détaillées concernant la recherche sur les «Mobilités liées à la santé», dont certaines en allemand et en anglais. Il comprend également un compte-rendu de la réunion de géographie féministe qui s'est tenue à l'université de Bonn et un hommage à la vie de Doreen Massey et à son rôle central dans les séminaires de lecture intitulés "Doreen Massey Reading Weekends" qui ont été centraux dans le développement des approches féministes dans la géographie allemande.
