

INTERNATIONAL GEOGRAPHICAL UNION COMMISSION ON GENDER AND GEOGRAPHY

NEWSLETTER NO 46

MAY 2011

Letter from the Commission Chair

On 4-5 March 2011 I attended the first meeting of the Steering Committee of the International Year of Global Understanding (IYGU) which took place in Weimar, Germany. The IYGU is an International Geographical Union-led initiative lead by Professor Benno Werlen. It aims to mobilize the sciences, social sciences and humanities in a united effort to raise awareness of the global implications of everyday living. I was invited to present on gender issues relevant to the project. The ideas were well received and I am looking forward to continuing working with this Committee as we plan towards having the United Nations General Assembly declare 2014 the UN International Year of Global Understanding.

I am also looking forward on 25-26 July 2011 to taking part in the seminar 'Householding in Transition: Emerging Dynamics in "Developing" East and Southeast Asia' to be held at Asia Research Institute, National University of Singapore. Delegates will explore how in recent decades, the 'developing' East and Southeast Asian region has experienced profound social and economic change which has affected household structures and their members' everyday lives. See http://www.ari.nus.edu.sg/events_categorydetails.asp?categoryid=6&eventid=1092 for more information.

Later in the year, 8-10 November 2011, I will be joining others at a meeting on 'Connecting differences through spatial borders' at the Pontificia Universidade Católica (PUC) in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. This will be the inaugural Commission conference in Latin-America on gender and geography. It is hoped that from 2011 such meetings will be hosted in the region every two years. The meeting in Brazil will precede the IGU regional conference 14-18 November 2011 in Santiago, Chile. For more information see <http://www.gete.net.br/ocs/index.php/ugi/SGGUGI> or contact Joseli Maria Silva at joseli.genero@gmail.com.

Finally I would like to remind everyone that next year, 23-25 August 2012, our Commission will host a pre-meeting 'Down to earth: identities, bodies and spatial scales' at the University of Hamburg, Germany. Local organizers are Anke Struever a.struver@nsm.kun.nl and Sybille Bauriedl billebau@gmx.net, University of Hamburg. This promises to be a very interesting meeting that will precede the International Geographical Congress, 26-30 August in Cologne, Germany. Details will be published in due course.

News from Around the World

We are pleased to announce that Ruth Fincher (University of Melbourne) has been elected to the Executive of the International Social Science Council having been nominated by the IGU. Ruth is a current Vice President of the IGU and a former Chair of the Commission on Gender and Geography.

Janet Momsen (University of California, Davis/Oxford University) undertook a consultancy in Kerala, India on Gender and Biodiversity for the University of Hannover, Germany in February, 2011.

The seminar series on “Développement rural et agricole et dynamiques des rapports de genre : Afrique et Amérique noires.” continued at University of Toulouse le Mirail on May 9th, organized by Stéphanie Mulot and Héléne Guetat-Bernard. It focused on environmental questions and critiques of ecofeminism. This followed the February seminar on mobility, migration, and rural women

Shekh Moinuddin (University of Delhi) has received a grant from the Indian Council for Social Science Research to study “The Political Mapping of Media Spaces in India: A spatio-temporal study.”

The European Geographies of Sexualities Conference will be held September 8-10, 2011 at Hogeschool-Universiteit, See http://ssqrg.net/?page_id=219#010 for further information.

Kuntala Lahiri Dutt (Australian National University) has been awarded a grant with colleagues in India by the Australia-India Institute for an interdisciplinary project “Whose empowerment? A study of micro finance institutions and financial inclusion of India’s rural women.” They will investigate microfinance use under the Self Help Group-NBank Linkage Program by tribal and Muslim women in West Bengal and Arunachal Pradesh and the extent to which the program contributes to women’s economic and social empowerment in these less developed states of India.

The Geographic Perspectives on Women Specialty Group (GPOW) within the Association of American Geographers (AAG) sponsored or co-sponsored 36 paper or panel sessions at the annual AAG meeting in Seattle, April 12-16, 2009. Presenters came from an array of countries in addition to the US, among them Australia, Canada, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Portugal, Sweden, and the UK. Topical and methodological themes were addressed from gender and climate change to social reproduction, gender and politics in conflict areas, sexual trafficking, and health and disability. Several sessions honored the work of the late Julie Graham. The annual book and author reception, held at a local art gallery, attracted a large crowd to celebrate books published by feminist authors over the last year. In addition to sessions organized by GPOW, gender topics were included in many other sessions and the annual Gender, Place and Culture Jan Monk Distinguished Lecture was presented by Banu Gökariksel (University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill) on “The Politics of Secularism, Piety, and the Headscarf.” drawing on her sustained research in Turkey. It will be published in the first issue of the journal in 2012.

Katherine Brickell (Royal Holloway, University of London) has received a grant from the Economic and Social Research Council / UK Department for International Development Joint Scheme for Research on International Development for research on “Lay and Institutional Knowledges of Domestic Violence Law: Towards Active Citizenship in Rural and Urban Cambodia.”

Anindita Datta (Delhi University) has been appointed to the editorial board of Gender Place and Culture, beginning January, 2011 .She also gave the keynote address, “Contextualizing Asian Feminisms: A View from India” at the 4th Gendering Asia Conference organized by NIAS and University of Copenhagen on 13th November 2010, Copenhagen, Denmark and a plenary paper “Reinterpreting Power and Agency within Indigenous Feminisms: An Exploration” at the International Seminar “Masculine Feminine: New Issues in Geography” organized by the University of Bordeaux, France on 18th September, 2010.

Two multi-year collaborative grants have been awarded to Ragnhild Lund (Norwegian University of Science and Technology) for gender research in Asia. A three-year project supported by the Research Council of Norway will address “Mobile livelihoods and gendered citizenship: The counter-geographies of indigenous people in India, Laos, and China.” The work will be carried out with Kyoko Kusakabe, (Gender and Development Studies, School of Environment, Resources and Development, Asian Institute of Technology}, Smita Mishra Panda (Human Development Foundation), and Yunxian Wang (Shanghai Academy of Social Sciences) . They will address the dynamic changes indigenous communities face with rapid infrastructure improvement and commercialization/industrialization in their places of livelihoods which are rapidly being exposed to structural adjustments, neo-liberalist policies and reform.

The second project, (2011-2014) “Re-visiting gender in development: Complex inequalities in Changing Asia” is funded by the Research Council of Norway. Led by the coordinating team of Ragnhild Lund, Bernadette Resurreccion and Philippe Doneys, (both of Gender and Development Studies, Asian Institute of Technology), it will include researchers from Thailand, Malaysia, India, China, Denmark, UK, and Norway. They will re-visit the concept of gender in a rapidly changing Asia that offers changing economic, political and social conditions in various contexts, in order to offer new pathways for the transformation of gender inequalities to more holistically address the emancipatory and transformative agendas of feminism and development with a conscious effort at incorporating ways in which gender is understood and produced by people in the Asian region.

Congratulations to Maria Dolors Garcia Ramon (Autonomous University of Barcelona) who has been honored with the 2011 Geocritica award recognizing her long standing significant contributions in rural geography, history of geography, and her role in developing feminist/gender studies. The detailed citation identifies her widespread activities and ties in Europe, the UK, US, and Latin America, and her multi-lingual publications (<http://www.ub.edu/geocrit/pig11.htm>). We note that Maria Dolors was founding secretary of the original IGU Gender Study Group (now Commission) and has hosted an array of international events supporting gender studies, most recently the symposium on "Feminist Geographies Around the World" which generated the special 2007 issue of the journal Belgeo.

Lan-Hung (Nora) Chiang is "retiring" from National Taiwan University and has been awarded the title of Professor Emerita. She is continuing her research on Taiwanese migration, currently conducting oral histories with long-term women migrants to Vancouver.

Actos do Seminario Geografias de Inclusão: desafios e oportunidades: Geographies of Inclusion: Challenges and Opportunities, is a collection of papers, some in Portuguese, some in English, presented at the 2010 conference in Lisbon on sexuality, migrant populations, and children. It is available at <http://www.geographiesofinclusion.pt.to/>

The economic geography group at the University of Zurich has a strong interest in feminist perspectives in addressing contemporary economic concerns. They recently organized a series of three guest lectures and workshops with invited feminist economists and economic geographers. Ulrike Knobloch (University of Fribourg, Switzerland) on "Economics in the 21st century. Theorizing paid work and social provisioning," Kim England (University of Washington, USA) on "Body work, care theory and the home" and Diane Perrons (London School of Economics) on "Globalisation, gender and social justice: after the crisis."

Nandini Singh (Rajiv Gandhi University) has received a two-year research grant from the University Grants Commission for the project "Prospects of enhancing the role of Apatani women in agroforestry and horticulture through micro-credit facilities." The research will be conducted in Arunchal Pradesh where women carry out almost all the in agricultural activities.

Lynda Johnston, was interviewed by Waikato Times for the article (published August 14, 2010) 'A hard road in a queer old city', on sexuality, homophobia and marginalisation in Hamilton, New Zealand..

A joint research project has been established by geographers at the Universities of Berne and Zurich titled "Understanding inequalities of access to spaces of paid work: The intersection of gender and ethnicity." The main researcher in Berne is Yvonne Riano.

Elisabeth Bühler (Zurich) has been invited to undertake quantitative analysis on Switzerland. The project is funded by the Swiss National Science Foundation for 3 years.
