

IGU AWARD to Gender Commission!

Our Commission is the first recipient of the IGU award for the Commission that has most successfully advanced the objectives of the IGU! The decision was based on the report of our activities for 2012-13. The award is certainly reflective of all our efforts, especially the past Chairs and stalwarts of the Commission – Janet, Ruth, Joos, Tovi and Robyn and newsletter editor, Jan.

The award will be announced at the Opening Ceremony in Krakow in August so I hope those of us headed for the meeting will be able to be at the opening. We will get a prize of USD2,000 and the right to deliver a public lecture on “the most important scientific results” of our Commission’s activities at Krakow. I hope we can all start thinking about what those are.

Since the last newsletter, the Commission has been busy finalising our sessions at the IGU Regional Conference in Krakow this coming August. I am pleased to share that we will have about a dozen sessions around the main conference theme of “Changes, Challenges, Responsibility” (see <http://www.igu2014.org/programme> for the preliminary programme). I am very grateful to all the session chairs who have put in the effort to organise the sessions which will examine gender issues in ranging from participatory methodologies, mobilities, tourism, human rights, food chains, everyday lives, parenthood and media and surviving and thriving in academia.

I am also very grateful to our colleagues at Faculty of Geography and Regional Studies at the University of Warsaw who have taken on the challenge to organise our Pre-conference Workshop on “The Gendering of New Realities: Unequal Challenges and Responsibilities” on 16-17 August. The workshop will examine the wide array of postcolonial experiences in geographical research and/or teaching on gender across the world. They are still seeking papers! Please go to <http://py.wgsr.uw.edu.pl/en/igu2014/> for registration details. The registration fees include a half-day guided city field trip.

Finally, I am very pleased to announce that the Gender Commission is recognising Professor Maria Dolors Garcia Ramon, Autonomous University of Barcelona, for her many contributions to feminist geography and the Commission. Maria Dolors has been one of feminist geography’s most constant international supporters. She was founding secretary of the IGU Gender Study Group that preceded our Commission status, has hosted and secured funding for conferences, research on gender issues, as well as mentored many young feminist geographers through her career. We wish her all the best in her upcoming retirement this year. We will accord her the honour at the conference on “Feminist Geography: Who we are, what we do, why we do it” held in Omaha at the University of Nebraska on 15-18 May 2014.

As this academic year draws to a close, I wish you all a productive summer and hope to see you in Krakow and Warsaw!

Shirlena Huang (National University of Singapore)
Chair, IGU Gender and Geography Commission

News from Around the World

Congratulations to our colleagues at the University of Waikato, New Zealand, who have received major recognition. Robyn Longhurst has been appointed as the University's Pro-Vice Chancellor Education beginning January 2014 and also received the university's 2013 postgraduate supervision excellence award. Lynda Johnston has received one of the University's four Research Excellence Award, which recognized her community impact. It acknowledged more than 20 years of informing debate and shaping community opinions on issues such as marriage equality, queer identity, and sexual health and well-being. Lynda and Robyn were also both honored at the 2014 Association of American Geographers meeting. Lynda was awarded the Jan Monk Service Award of the Geographic Perspectives on Women Specialty Group while Robyn was also present to accept that award for 2013 which she had been unable to accept in person last year.

On Australia Day, January 26, 2014, Ruth Fincher (Professor of Geography, University of Melbourne) has received a major award from the Australian government, as a Member of the Order of Australia. It honors her significant service to education, particularly to geography and urban studies and to national and international geographic associations. Ruth served as a Vice-President of the International Geographical Union, 2008-2012, as Chair of the IGU Commission on Gender and Geography, 1996-2000; is currently President of the Academic Board of the University of Melbourne, was Executive Committee Member of the International Social Science Council, 2010-2013, and has played many other roles in academia. Congratulations on this high national honor!

A 'gender task force' has been formed in the VGDH (Association of German Geography) to conduct a quantitative and qualitative study about the persistence of gender inequalities in German geography departments. Additionally, the Deutscher Geographentag has been renamed into Deutscher Kongress für Geographie in order to respond to the 'new' reality of German geography, in which both female and male geographers now play an important role. The old name used only the male form of geographer (Geograph) (which excluded female geographers - Geographinnen).

Congratulations to Anne Buttimer (Emeritus Professor, University College, Dublin) who was awarded Lifetime Achievement Honors by the Association of American Geographers at its 2014 Annual Meeting in Tampa, Florida, in April 2014. The award recognizes her sustained contributions to philosophies of geography and to connecting geography and social policies as well as recognizing her international leadership including Presidency of the International Geographical Union (2000-2004) and Vice Presidency of Academia Europaea.

Tovi Fenster, Tel Aviv University gave a series of talks about 'Gender and the City' at the end of January, 2014 at the La Laguna University in Tenerife, Canary Islands. hosted by Prof. Luz Marina Garcia Herrera who has an active group that do research on this issue..

Dedicated to Ragnild Lund, Norwegian University of Science and Technology and a member of the steering committee of the IGU Commission on Gender and Geography, the book Alternative Development: Unraveling Marginalization, Voice Change honors her career in fostering international collaborative work in development and gender studies. The book, edited by Catherine Brun, Piers Blaikie, and Michael Jones, is inspired by Ragnild's four decades of "balancing academic life and activism with themes of alternative development such as local knowledges and practices, poverty, gender, environment and sustainable development, and addressing recent debates such as forced migration, conflict, and climate change." The volume includes an autobiographical discussion between Ragnild and Michael Jones on her life and career since the mid 1970s. Chapters focusing on gender themes are identified below in the section on articles and book chapters. We congratulate Ragnild on this tribute. volume.

Congratulations to Nazgol Bagheri (University of Texas, San Antonio) who has received the 2013 University of Missouri-Kansas Outstanding Dissertation Award selected from a highly competitive pool of applications by the university's School of Graduate Studies. Her Ph.D dissertation is entitled "Modernizing the Public Space: Gender Identities, Multiple Modernities, and Space Politics in Tehran." She presented on this research at the IGU Regional Conference in Kyoto in 2013.

Congratulations to Carolyn Schurr who has received the Swiss Latin American dissertation award for my dissertation 'Performing politics, making space: a visual ethnography of political change in Ecuador' with a 6.000 CHF prize money.

Over 60 paper and/or panels sessions at the Association of American Geographers were sponsored or co-sponsored by the Geographic Perspectives on Women Specialty Group. Among co-sponsoring specialty groups were Sexuality and Space, Development Geography, Cultural and Political Ecology, Latin American Geography, Rural Geography, and History of Geography. In addition to presenters from the United States were also geographers from Australia, Brazil, Canada, India, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Spain, and the U.K. A full list of sessions and abstracts can be accessed by entering Geographic Perspectives on Women at the site for the preliminary program. <http://meridian.aag.org/callforpapers/program/index.cfm?mtgID=59>

Congratulations to Karen Schwiter and colleagues who have been awarded a multi-year grant by the Swiss National Science Foundation for the project "Anticipated parenthood and employment trajectories. The interrelation of family and career plans of young adults and their implications for occupational gender segregation." The project is hosted at the Center of Gender Studies of the University of Basel and runs from June 2014 to December 2016. Karen (University of Zurich) is currently spending a research semester in Vancouver..
